Education is a preparation for life. It is a lifelong process. Educational Institutions lay down the foundation of the process. The college is located at Sujampur- Tihra in Hamirpur District, a place of historical importance. The grandeur of the Dhualadhars provide a serene backdrop to the college campus. At one time it was the capital of a flourishing kingdom on the bank of the river Beas, ruled by famous Maharaja Sansar Chand. It is situated in the rural area of Hamirpur district and draws its students from the surrounding towns and villages of three districts, Kangra, Mandi and Hamirpur. It was christened after the legendary statesman of the region Thakur Jagdev Chand. Thakur Jagdev Chand Memorial Govt. Degree College came into being in 2001. Since its inception, the college has risen from strength to strength and has progressively made its marks as one of the leading institutions of higher learning in Himachal Pradesh. This Institution provides an ideal ambience to the students for pursuit of learning and development of personality. The college is affiliated to the Himachal Pradesh University, Shimla under sections 2(f) & 12 (B) of UGC act. and has been accredited B Grade by NAAC. Its reaccreditation process is in progress. Vision & Mission :- To strengthen the academic environment to enhance the quality of teaching and learning. To adopt measures of self evaluation, accountability and innovations in the field of Higher Education. Creating best infrastructure for the excellence of education. To inculcate the sense of responsibility, the spirit of social service and communal harmony particularly among the students and the society in general. To undertake the technological advancement and innovations in education and research. To contribute to the national development by capacity building of individuals other human resources and fostering global competencies.

At present, we see that along with the concept of development, degradation of environment is also taking place on a very large scale. There is no doubt that to keep pace with the world economies, we have to accelerate development and upgrade technology. But along with this process of development, we also see that our environment is suffering from its fatal consequences. And when there is environmental pollution in some way, it will have an impact on us. Today, various types of pollution are causing many diseases. Industrialization, transportation and many other factors have led to extreme climatic and soil pollution. The concept of sustainable development carries with it certain options in which we develop as environment friendly and use natural resources in such a way that future generations can also use these natural resources. The main objective of this international workshop sponsored by Government College Sujampur is to make the society aware of sustainable development and environment and how we can make the concept of sustainable development successful. And how can we protect our environment? The meaning is that along with development, we also have to save the environment, only then will we be able to protect ourselves from the protection of nature.

International workshop on "Sustainable Development and Environment Conservation."

Good afternoon to all,

Respected Convener & Organizing Secretary of This one Week International Workshop on "Sustainable Development and Environment Conservation." Prof. Rajeev Thakur, Distinguished Guests, Esteemed Speakers and Participants,

It is with immense pleasure and a deep sense of gratitude that I welcome you all to this Valedictory session of this crucial one-week international workshop on "Sustainable Development and Environment Conservation." This gathering of experts, practitioners, and enthusiasts from all around signifies our shared commitment to addressing one of the most pressing challenges of our time.

In an era marked by rapid industrialization, technological advancements, and increasing consumption, the delicate balance between human progress and environmental well-being has been severely strained. We are witnessing the alarming consequences of climate change, biodiversity loss, resource depletion, and pollution – consequences that threaten not only the health of our planet but also the future of humanity.

Sustainable development, with its core principle of meeting the needs of the present without compromising the ability of future generations to meet their own needs, provides us with a framework for navigating this complex landscape. It demands a holistic and integrated approach, acknowledging the interconnectedness of economic growth, social equity, and environmental protection. This workshop has served as a platform to explore these interconnections, to share knowledge, and to forge partnerships that will drive us towards a more sustainable future. Over the week, we have delve into a range of critical topics, including renewable energy, circular economy, conservation strategies, environmental policy, community engagement. We are very delighted to have blessings of Hon,ble MLA Sujanpur Constituency Cap. Sh. Ranjeet Singh Rana ji .

We had a truly impressive lineup of speakers, Dr. Komal Raj Aryal, Aston University Birmingham UK, Prof. Azra Tajhizi, Maragheh University , Iran, Professor S.K. Gupta, former Vice Chancellor of Himachal Pradesh University and former Chairman of Himachal Pradesh Higher Education, Former Vice Chancellor of H. P. Central University Prof. Kuldeep Agnihotri, Former Vice Chancellor of Sardar Patel University Mandi Prof. Dev Dutt Sharma, Prof. S.P. Kaushal, Head of Deparment of Geography Kurukshetra University, Dr. Richa Ranjan, Director-cum-Principal of Devi Dayal Law College, Panchkula and former Professor and Deen of Raya Bhra University and Prof. Mamta Mokhta, H P Unversity Shimla so on each a recognized leader in their respective fields. I am confident that their insights and expertise have inspired us all and provided us with invaluable tools and strategies for action.

However, this workshop is not just about listening and learning. It is about engaging in constructive dialogue, fostering collaboration, and generating innovative solutions. I thank you all for actively participation in the discussions, sharing your perspectives, and contribution to the collective effort to address the environmental challenges we face.

The urgency of the situation cannot be overstated. The time for complacency is over. We must move beyond rhetoric and translate our commitments into concrete actions. This workshop offered a unique opportunity to strengthen our collective resolve and to develop a roadmap for a more sustainable and environmentally responsible future.

I believe that the solutions to these complex problems lie in collaboration – collaboration between governments, businesses, academia, and civil society. This workshop is a testament to the power of collaboration, bringing together individuals from diverse backgrounds and disciplines to work towards a common goal.

I am particularly heartened by the presence of Dr. Sanjay Thakur, Principal of Government College Jhanduta, Bilaspur district Dr. Anil Thakur, Principal of Govt. ABSTRACT

This research paper throws light on the meaning of digital age and its impact on reading, writing and speaking in context with people with disabilities. The coming global movement for disability rights since the 1980s and the emergence of technology and advancement in digital technology even covering people with disabilities. This paper is goal oriented in bringing modest as well as transformative effect advanced digital technologies proved beneficial for people with brain injury, autism mental difficulties, hearing and visual impairment. Audio assistance devices and technologies to provide help to people with disabilities this paper throws light on assistive technology for the blind and visually impaired. Different types of Assistive devices are described in this paper. Assistive devices can help people with disabilities access their physical environment, digital content and cognitive abilities. Assistance devices and technologies to provide help to people with disabilities the use of such assistive technology can help to reduce eye strain for low vision users as zoom in facility makes it easier for users to read sections of content. This paper shows how technology enables a disabled to continue to participate and contribute to society. Moreover assistive technology produces more reader's writers and storytellers who otherwise failed to give their contribution in literature.

Abstract:

The National Education Policy (NEP) 2020 is a paradigm shift towards holistic and experiential learning with a focus on creativity and critical thinking. It introduces a wave of new reforms including curriculum development with a child-centric approach, vocational and technological advancements in education. Research and job opportunities are intended to be improved through the establishment of National Research Foundation (NRF) and heightened attention on vocational training. NEP 2020 promotes the use of technology and aims to achieve a Gross Enrolment Ratio (GER) in colleges and universities up to 50 percent by 2035. It emphasizes the importance of communication and collaboration with communities and other relevant entities to enhance their capacities. The policy advocates for increased financial commitment to education and explores funding models such as public-private partnerships. Realizing the goals of the National Education Policy 2020 requires not just visionary reforms, but also effective financial management. The ultimate aim is to nurture individuals who are equipped to meet the demands of the new economy while upholding strong ethical principles and intercultural tolerance. This paper evaluates the NEP 2020 and outlines the challenges and implementation issues that may hinder its achievement. Based on the literature of past studies, the study aims to identify the policy's distinctive characteristics, challenges, possible strategies and resources for policy implementation.

I. Introduction

An education system rooted in the Indian ethos contributes directly to India's sustainable transformation into an equal and prosperous knowledge society by providing quality education to all, thereby establishing India as a global knowledge superpower (Kumar, 2020). Knowledge, skills, beliefs and attitudes that represent a genuinely global citizen, such as those that promote human rights, sustainable development & living and global well-being (Muralidharan & Singh, 2020). The development of a strong sense of identity as an Indian permeates every aspect of one's existence. The progress of India has emphasized educational reform (Aithal & Aithal, 2019). The NEP 2020 was introduced as a transformative framework aimed at revamping India's education system. Replacing the 34-year old NEP of 1986, it focused on bridging gaps in quality, equity and access to education at all levels. The purpose of the NEP 2020 is to enhance the existing educational structure and to make pre-primary education universal, with a particular focus on ensuring that everyone has basic literacy and numeracy skills by 2025. In order to ensure the quality, it suggests a number of changes at all levels of education. These include changing the curriculum and pedagogy of 5+3+3+4 design, which covers students, aged 3 to 18, improving teacher preparation and reorganizing the educational regulatory framework.

The NEP 2020 intends to implement formal and non-formal learning models. Classes provide formal education in which students learn from textbooks and the teacher's lectures. The new policy is intended to encourage students to acquire knowledge in ways other than classroom instruction. Sanskrit is offered at both the Secondary and University levels because of India's well-deserved reputation for its rich cultural heritage and linguistic diversity. As a result of being exposed to many languages from the start of their education, students will benefit much intellectually (Joshi, Sakate & Khabale, 2023). It is a significant shift because schools no longer classify subjects as either "Humanities," or "Sciences," or as "Academic" or "Vocational." The committee responsible for developing NEP 2020 has put in an extensive effort to craft a policy that considers a Plant-based pesticides, derived from botanical sources, have gained attention as eco-friendly alternatives to synthetic agrochemicals in sustainable agriculture. These natural pesticides are sourced from plant metabolites such as alkaloids, terpenoids, flavonoids, and essential oils, offering effective pest management while minimizing environmental harm. Unlike synthetic counterparts, plant-based pesticides are biodegradable, reduce chemical residues in food, and mitigate risks to non-target organisms. Their role in promoting biodiversity, enhancing soil health, and reducing greenhouse gas emissions aligns with sustainable farming practices. However, challenges such as variability in efficacy, limited shelf life, and large-scale production must be addressed to mainstream their application. Continued research and technological innovations can expand their adoption, paving the way for a resilient and sustainable agricultural system.

Keywords: Botanical pesticides, Sustainable agriculture, Natural pest control, Eco-friendly farming

Introduction

Plant-based pesticides, commonly referred to as botanical pesticides are natural pest control agents derived from various parts of plants, including leaves, roots, seeds, bark, and flowers. These substances contain bioactive compounds that exhibit pesticidal properties (Okwute, 2012). Unlike synthetic chemical pesticides, which are artificially produced and often leave toxic residues in the environment, botanical pesticides are biodegradable and eco-friendly.

Well-known examples include neem oil extracted from the neem tree (Azadirachta indica), pyrethrins derived from Chrysanthemum flowers, and rotenone obtained from the roots of certain tropical plants (Dalavayi Haritha et al., 2021). These natural pesticides are often specific in their action, targeting pests while being relatively harmless to helpful organisms such as soil microbes (Ngegba et al., 2022).

ABSTRACT:

Indian culture and history abounds with countless tales of legendary characters and humans who have influenced the masses across the globe since the time immemorial. The tales of these exceptional men and women, who have been lauded for their contributions, are depicted in the numerous ancient Indian historical books, myths and epics that are immersed in the psyche of the people and have left an indelible mark not only on the people of India and the Indian subcontinent but also of the world to a great extent. Modern revisionist female writers like Kavita Kane, Chitra Banerjee Divakaruni, Koral Das Gupta, and Priyanka Bhuyan etc. are focusing on the lives and characters of such exceptional women of Indian history and mythology who exerted their influence not only on their contemporaries during their times but also continue to inspire people around the world till now. The present study aims to highlight on seven such women of ancient Indian history and mythology, depicted in the retellings of Kavita Kane and Chitra Banerjee Divakaruni, who strove hard to claim their individual identities and emerged as strong, courageous and influential states women of all the times.

Keywords: Ancient Indian History, Mythology, Mahajanapada States, Influential Women, Kavita Kane, Chitra Banerjee Divakaruni.

INTRODUCTION:

Women, the symbol of divine feminine power 'Shakti' held significant positions in the ancient Indian states and their complex and varied roles sculptured the course of the Indian history vividly. Their roles were predominantly shaped by the societal, religious, cultural as well as the political contexts of those times. Bettina Knapp rightly asserts in Women, Myth and the Feminine Principle that history is abound with the resourcefulness of such women who understood the fact very well that a great part of life is only striving. These women on account of their insight, innate intelligence, sensitivity and willpower were able to circumvent constraints and assert their individualities beyond expectations. The unwillingness of such exceptional women to sink into a muddle of physical and spiritual captivity influenced and inspired others to carve out a niche for themselves in the public and private domain (xiv).

In the ancient Indian states women's contributions were recognized as vital and influential in the areas of education, religion, governance as well as in the family. Women were not only considered as the foundation stones of the family life but also of the society at large. They had access to education and were well versed in literature, governance and philosophy. Gargi, Maitreyi, Lopamudra, Apala, Ghosha and others like them were renowned philosophers and scholars who contributed to religious discourses and debates significantly. There were also women who governed the states or helped the rulers to govern as regents. While ensuring the welfare of the state, they ensured that the political structure remained as stable as the

Indian Scriptures: The Disseminator of Human Values and the Idea of Vasudhaiva Kutumbakam

Abstract: Modern times are the times of uncertainty, corruption, wars and decline in moral values. In absence of the moral values the ultimate chaos has surrounded every humanbeing, making it difficult to live in peace and harmony. Religious scriptures come as saviors of mankind during such times of moral deprivation. These sacred books are the indispensable sources of guidance and values for each and every person. They are fundamental in shaping the human mind, behavior and attitude. The ancient Indian scriptures such as Vedas, Upanishads, Puranas are the storehouse of knowledge and beliefs that guide the humanity even today. They teach us values applicable to all human beings. For the layman who cannot understand the profound philosophy enshrined in the Vedas and Puranas, the revered sages like Valmiki and Maharishi Ved Vyasa wrote the twin epics of Ramayana and Mahabharata encompassing the same philosophy in an easy manner. This paper hence, is an attempt to highlight the importance of the ancient Indian scriptures that are the store house of the eternal moral values. The reading of these scriptures helps in the regeneration of the fast declining moral values in the modern man. As the modern man acquires the knowledge of these declining moral values, he emerges as a morally enlightened human being, who is dedicated to service of humanity. He treats everyone existing on this earth as the member of one large family of humanity, believing in as well as propagating the idea of the Vasudhaiva Kutumbakam, i.e. "the whole earth is a family".

COUPE'S CONFINEMENT LEADING TO LIBERATION: THE
FEMALE JOURNEYS OF SELF-DISCOVERY IN ANITA NAIR'S
LADIES COUPE

ABSTRACT:

Women the worthy individuals, proficient to accomplish any daunting task in the interest of others, were for eons forbidden to seek anything for themselves. The idea of seeking anything for them was considered thoroughly indecorous and hence the thought was never approved of even by the women. However, with the traditional concept of womanhood undergoing a tremendous change in the modern contemporary societies, the hitherto forbidden women are steadily heading towards their emancipation and self-assertion. They are striving hard to come out of their adverse and marginalized positions that they find themselves forced into on account of the diverse reasons. Anita Nair's novel Ladies Coupe depicts the lives of such women who desire to do away with their unfavorable situations, to discover their individualities and to attain their independence. By analyzing the behaviors and circumstances of the female characters portrayed by Nair in Ladies Coupe, this paper attempts to have a better understanding of the marginalization of women of varied social backgrounds. The paper aims to highlight the endeavors of these women to set aside their marginalization and it also explores the role of travel in their development and realization of 'self'.

Keywords: Women, Dejection, Empowerment, Self- Discovery, Journey, Ladies Coupe, Anita Nair.

Introduction:

Owing to the multifaceted gender patterns that work diversely on women of different castes, classes, colors and backgrounds, women find themselves in the marginalized position as compared to their male counterparts. Although, in the modern times, they are said to be in relatively better positions than their earlier counterparts, and have also attained numerous rights earlier denied to them, but still the prominent challenge for women in the patriarchal societies, is to locate their identities and to furnish themselves with the requisite qualities and skills to be able to come out as worthy individuals of society and to construct strong identities for themselves. Anita Nair's novel Ladies Coupé gives us a glimpse of the natural vigor that a woman owns to reconstruct her life. Perhaps pertaining to this fact, Nair calls this novel a story about "ordinary women with indomitable spirit (Sinha 163)

Abstract: Change is the law of Nature and the absence of change means stagnation, monotony and non-acceptance to the novel ideas, the ideas that herald a fresh beginning. Change is always imperative for a better life but it is not an easy task to herald the change ever. It requires resolution of the will, commitment to the task, persistence to achieve the goal and renunciation of the personal pleasures. History is enriched with the examples of such people who have harbingered the change for a better life of the humanity. Women, the larger part of the human population on our planet have never been treated at par with their male counterparts and they have always been struggling to gain equal opportunities in the society. In order to attain equal rights for women, a lot of female leaders and writers have waged a war in their own unique ways. Some of them resorted to form organizations aimed to work for the betterment of women and held protests against the injustices done to women, whereas, the others decided to opt for the pen to achieve the same ends of attaining the rights for women. All these women struggled quite hard to bring out the requisite change in the prevalent situation of the women. As a result of their efforts, women experienced tremendous changes in their personal, professional and social lives, and they attained the fundamental rights earlier denied to them in the society. The present study aims to discuss some of

Abstract

Ever since eternity, an infrangible association has been shared by women and nature and the literary intellectuals have perpetually been exploring this association exhaustively for ages. The fictional retellings of the Indian epics by the famous Indian contemporary writer, Chitra Banerjee Divakaruni, showcase the compassionate bond shared by women with nature. This paper is an endeavor to explore and analyze Divakaruni's very well known fictional work The Palace of Illusions that paints a plaintive picture of the protagonist Draupadi's humiliation and the detrimental repercussions of the war on humanity along with the environment. The paper, hence, attempts to unveil the persistent persecution of women together with the incessant devastation of the natural environment done at the hands of the androcentric society.

Keywords: Women, Nature, Association, Exploitation, Patriarchy, Eco-feminism, Chitra Banerjee Divakaruni.

Introduction

Women and Nature the twin towers that sustain the existence of the abode of the humanity on this planet have always been tried to be demolished by the androcentric ideology of the society. In spite of catering to both the materialistic and aesthetic needs of man, he had invariably adopted an attitude of subjugation and exploitation towards Women and Nature. In Woman and Nature (2015), Susan Griffin asserts that man believes in the existence of an ostensible proximity between woman and nature in the world wherein he sets himself miles apart from these two. The woman converses with nature heart-to-heart, hears voices emanating from earth, overhears the wind and whispers of the trees, whereas he refrains from this dialogue (13). Concomitant to this, the world has always been extensively grappled with the erroneous
